April Social Emotional Learning Update

April has drawn to a close, marking the conclusion of testing season and a shift towards nurturing positive relationships. Students engaged with the heartwarming story of “Stick and Stone” by Beth Ferry, exploring themes of friendship and support, reinforcing the values of kindness and empathy.

May Social Emotional Learning Preview

Looking forward to May, our focus on social-emotional growth continues. Through interactive games and activities, we’ll sharpen problem-solving skills, foster conflict resolution strategies, and encourage healthy friendships and communication. It’s worth noting that playing games and allowing children to learn the art of both losing and winning are proven methods for developing social-emotional skills. These engaging experiences aim to equip students with essential life skills in a supportive environment. Stay tuned for more updates on our ongoing Social Emotional Learning journey!
